BRYN MAWR, Sept. 24.

Two thrills marked the opening of the fourth day at the Bryn Mawr Horse Show, Lurman Stewart again being the principal actor in the little drama, which for a moment looked to be a tragedy. Mr. Stewart was riding Sloe Gin, in class 66, a post and rail jumping class with unusually interesting entries. Sice Gin became "Slow Gin" just at an inopportune moment, and the decided halt in his gait threw Mr. Stewart completely over his head. The rider remounted alst immediately, and neither horse nor rider was the worse for wear. The second spill and incidental thrill followed almost immediately in the same lass when a groom riding Transport for Willis Sharpe Kilmer took a header of very much the same description. Trans-port's manners, however, were not considered au fait, and he was transported from the ring. Brilliant weather, which has characterized each day since the opening of the show, continues. A heavy blanket of dew was everywhere apparent in the early hours, but the sun coming from behind a mist later in the morning quickly dried he damp grass and soggy canvas covering the sands. Later the band appeared and soon every person was happy.

Regardless of Mr. Stewart's acrobatic attempts to win a blue, the first prize went to Howard H. Henry, on Colonel Obannen, a new horse. The second was taken by Templar, an entry of Louis C. Clark, Jr. St. Winifred, from Glen Riddle Farms, took third.

In the second class of hunters and jump ers judged, a featureless competition aside from remarkable riding, the blue was taken by Willowking, a former prize winner, from Glen Riddle Farms.

Sally Combeo, entered by F. Ambrose Clark, and another blue ribbon horse, took second in the contest. Third and fourth honors went to Fallan, of Highland Farm, and Wild Irishman, last year's winners of the Radnor Challenge Cup, and entered William T. Clothier's Valleyhill

Mr. Stewart figured in a third spill hardly before he had brushed the tan back from his clothing following the other two. He was riding Benjamin, New York entry of Robert L. Gerry, when the horse refused in front of hedge near the judge's to the ground.

Stewart lashed savagely at the horse's neck with his crop after remounting, but could not make Benjamin take a rail fence beyond the hedge of misfortune. lie was obliged to withdraw from the

B. McLean's Alarm ran away with first honors in the last class of hunters and jumpers judged before noon. The Virginian, a Glen Riddle entry, came in second. W. Plunkett Stewart's Triumph was third, and fourth honors went to Hamsale, Robert L. Gerry's horse.

SPECULATION OVER FINALS. Enthusiasts have now settled down to a regular mid-week horse show attitude. Already possible winners in various classes are being picked for entry in the championship competitions which feature the last day of the exhibition. Horses which have been consistent in their actions under different riders, and others which since the opening of the show have taken several blue ribbons, are the subject of considerable speculation. One of the burning questions among spectators seems to be, which horse will such and such an owner enter in championship competition from his string of win-

A number of favorites of other days have continued in their old-time form at Bryn Mawr during the week, while a few newcomers have shown marked ability to gallop off with first prizes.

Among the hounds, the principal competitors today are the Radnor Hunt Club, the Elkridge Hunt Club and the G. S. V. Hunt Club. The judging will be confined exclusively to half-breed hounds which will be seen; bitches, dogs singly and in pairs. None of the entrants has been shown before during the week.

polo grounds in a specially constructed ring, and at a given signal the terriers will proceed to dig. The little fellow who shows most marked ability at this sort of work will receive an award.

MORE THRILLS EXPECTED TODAY. Horses in harness, saddle horses, and ponies under saddle ridden by children will feature earlier afternoon competi-tions, while, was as the case yesterday, a large field of prize-winning hunters and jumpers ridden by daring and expert horsemen is expected to thrill the crowd as a concluding event. In the first-class horses in harness. Samuei M. Vauclain's Broadlawn Farms Daring Horsemen—Halfbreed Hounds Staged Today.

The saddle horse for women's class is another interesting event which will add to the attractions of this afternoon's judging. The cup in this contest must be twice won before it becomes the holder's property. In the meantime it is to remain in the custody of the Bryn Mawr Horse Show Associa-tion. Each year a medal will be awarded to the winner by the association. Among the entries in this class are Karat and Marjory Moreland, Robert L. Gerry's Flatrun, General Forrest, owned by Arthur J. In the last class entered today, the hunters and jumpers, Wild Irishman, who lost yesterday's Radnor Cup to Robert L. Gerry's Hamsah, is an en-trant, as is the winner. Sloe Gin and High Ball, the former a Highland Farm and the latter E. B. McLean's horse, are also among the champions which will compete. ATMOSPHERE INFORMAL AT HORSE SHOW IN THE MORNING

BRYN MAWR, Pa., Sept. 24.—There is a delightfully informal atmosphere at the horse show in the morning which is lost the afternoon.

The morning attendance is, for the most part, composed of the hunting element of Main Line society, who motor, or even walk, over from their neighboring homes, clad simply in linen skirts and blouses with panama hats, while in the afternoon society turns out in a body, clad in the best re-mains of their summer finery.

Mrs. John Valentine and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry were occupying the Valentine hox before the opening of the show, while Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. McGrann arrived a little later with Mrs. Alexander Brown and Miss Rose and Alexandra Delan, who are Mrs. Brown's house guests. Mrs. McGrann was looking particularly well today in a governor black well. ticularly well today in a gown of black brocaded crepe, with a flaring white col-lar. Her stiff-brimmed black hat was outlined with a garland of roses. Mrs Paul Denkla Mills wors a novel hat of fine black straw. The crown was outlined with quilled white corded ribbon and surmounted at the top with a band of typical bridal orange biossoms. Her white gown was belted at the waist with a beaded girdle embroidered in roses.

A. J. Antelo Devereux divided his attractive small daughter, whose escort he was during the morning.

Mrs. George H. Earle, Jr., was accompanied by her two little grandchildren. Kathryn and Charles Mather, who discussed the merits of the exhibitory horses with almost professional knowl-edge and criticism. Mrs. Thomas Ashton occupied her box during the morning in a freck of French blue and white plad. a frock of French blue and white plad, and Mrs. R. Mr. and Mrs. David Sharp were also among the early arrivals of the morning, accompanied by their little son.

Mrs. Sharp was wearing a white lingerie dress over which was a white shetland sweater. Mrs. Sharp joined Mrs. Mo-Grann and Mrs. Brown in the latter's heaven from these watched the judging shown before during the week.

Many enthusiasts who daily surround the tented inclosure where the canines are on display are anxiously awaiting one of the most interesting features of the combination horse and hound show which this week is making Bryn Mawr a mecca for the hunting sel. This is the digging test for fox terriers. There are seven entries in this class.

In nearly all packs of hunting dogs there is a small terrior which runs with the hounds, and whose chief function seems to be starting the quarry out of holes or drain pipes. Headed by Congressman J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, president of the organization, the members of the party arose early, and scores were on deck as the steamer backed out from the

In spite of the early hour the visitors received a tumultous greeting from the fleet of the alinight ferry oats, tugs and miscellaneous river craft. The Berkshire is scheduled to make brief stops today at West Point, New-burgh, Poughkeepsle and Kingston. She arrived at West Point about 10 o'clock. The party was met at the pier by Colonel Clarence Page Townsley, superintendent of the military academy After a climb up the hill, headed by Mr. Moore, Mayor Frederick W. Donnelly, of Trenton, Mayor William Ward, Jr., of Chester, Pa., and Mayor Charles H. Ellis, of Camden, N. J., the visitors inspected the buildings, and then returned boat. Getting away at 11:30 the steamer headed for Newburgh, which was reached at 12:30 o'clock. Arriving at Newburgh, the party as-sembled in parade formation under the auspices of the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce and proceeded to Washing-ton's headquarters. The meeting there was called to order by Mr. Moore, and short addresses of welcome were made of New York, or elsewhere today, and upon reasonable terms, the desired loan, burgh; ex-Governor Benjamin B. Odell. Jr., and H. A. Daniel, president of the Chamber of Commerce. The response was by Chief Justice J. Harry Coving-ton, of the Supreme Court, District of next, upon reasonable terms and at reasonable rate of interest."

The schedule calls for the bost to leave Newburgh at 1:45 for Poughkeep-sie, which is to be reached an hour iater. At the latter place the visitors will be met at the river landing by a large delegation of members of the Poughksepsie Chamber of Commerce, which will scort the party to the place of meeting.

According to the program, the Berk-shire will leave Poughkeepsie at 5:15 o'clock for Kingston. Under the auspices of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce the visitors will proceed to Kingston Park for short speeches.

From Kingston the Berkshire will carry the deeper waterways enthusiasts to Hudson, which is to be reached at 8 p. m. They will pass the night there aboard the steamer

At 9 o'clock tomorrow the delegates will leave Hudson for an inspection of the upper Hudson River improvements undertaken by the United States Government. They are due at Albany at 1 o'clock, where they will hold afternoon and evening sessions. Troy is the objective point on Saturday.

The election of officers will be held aboard the steamer in Albany on Satur-day evening, and at 9 o'clock that evening the Berkshire will head down stream for New York.

There will still be an ample variety tomorrow morning, but we should ask our customers, anxious to possess these rugs and to profit by the saving, not to delay any longer in making their choice.

The rugs are going very fast, at 25 per cent. reduction.

The variety among the favorite 9x12 Wilton, Body Brussels and Axminster rugs in various designs, is still abundant.

These are new 1914 pattern Bigelow rugs. They are superior to old, discontinued patterns that may appear in a few little lots elsewhere.

Whoever has observed the floor coverings of the Bellevue-Stratford, the Hotel Walton and the New Bingham must have noticed that they were very fine, and no wonder --- for they are Bigelow carpets and rugs.
